Find yourself “lured” to USpra’s conference!

The theme for the 2012 Annual Conference is “A Lure to Effective Practices,” since you’ll find yourself drawn to our exciting tracks.

Our Boston conference showed that the idea of having a variety of tracks from which to choose was very popular. This year, you’ll have five quite different tracks from which to choose, each of which will provide you with a different way of viewing many of the components of psychiatric rehabilitation, as well as allowing you the opportunity to gain in-depth knowledge and the ability to implement new service delivery.

To view sessions within the five content areas, please visit www.uspra.org.

Cultivating Wellness

Wellness is achieved when aspects of a person’s life are in balance and integrated: physical, occupational, spiritual, social, financial, emotional, environmental and intellectual. (Examples: effective strategies for weight management; everyday mindfulness; the role of spirituality in promoting recovery)

Special Issues in Service Delivery

Recovery oriented services rarely focus on only one presenting issue. A holistic approach requires that services be integrated coordinated, and person centered. Each day will focus on one or two special issues. (Examples: co-occurring mental illness and substance use disorders; mental health services for persons involved in the justice system; employment for individuals who are homeless; cultural issues)

Putting Evidence into Practice

Proposals in this category will demonstrate clear evidence including information on the level and type of evidence to support the practice, presentation of the practice and implications for replication. Researchers and practitioners are encouraged to team together to develop presentations for this track. (Examples: clubhouse, WRAP, supported education)

Recovery 201

Belief in recovery is the glue that brings USpra members together. This track is intended to help programs and practitioners move beyond the basics to develop a deeper understanding of recovery and specific interventions that can enhance the recovery process and one’s personal sense of recovery. (Examples: clarifying identity, personal medicine, resilience, the evolution from disability to dignity)

Community Integration

This track will focus on supporting people to rely less on mental health systems and supports and more on existing community institutions to build new lives for themselves. This track will look at both systemic barriers that limit opportunities for people to participate in community life and providing the individual supports needed to assist people in succeeding in new roles in every domain of community life. (Examples: civic engagement, career development, communicating with your doctor, making friends)
